

ABSTRACT

This invention relates to methods for detecting the deficiency of magnesium tightly bound to cellular membranes, i.e., magnesium binding defect, which deficiency is associated with certain abnormal physiological states, e.g., salt-sensitive essential hypertension or Type 2 diabetes mellitus.